Nilüfer Göle, organizer of the colloquium, is Professor of Sociology at EHESS, CESPRA in Paris. She works on Islamic visibility in European public spaces and the debates it engenders on religious and cultural difference, aiming to open up a new reading of modernity from a non-western perspective. She is the author of Islam in Europe: The Lure of Fundamentalism and the Allure of Cosmopolitanism (Marcus Weiner, Princeton, USA, 2010).

Sadik Jalal Al-Azm is Emeritus Professor of the History of Modern European Philosophy at Damascus University. His area of specialization is the philosophy of Immanuel Kant with a more current emphasis upon the Islamic world and its relationship to the West. He is the author of Ces interdits qui nous hantent : islam, censure, orientalisme (Parenthèses, Marseille, 2008).

Stefano Allievi is Professor of Sociology at the Faculty of Political Sciences, University of Padua. He is specialized on migration issues, in sociology of religion and cultural change, and has particularly focused his studies and researches on the presence of Islam in Europe. His latest publications include Conflicts over Mosques in Europe. Policy issues and trends (London, Alliance Publishing Trust / Network of European foundations, 2009).

Nebahat Avcioğlu is Associate Professor of Art History at Hunter College, CUNY, New York. Her research focuses on dissemination and transformation of forms and cultures, cross-cultural exchanges between Europe and the Islamic world, and socio-political aspects of the history of architecture. She is the author of Turquerie and the Politics of Representation, 1728-1876 (Ashgate, 2011).

Florence Bergeaud-Blackler is Associate Researcher at IREMAM, Université d'Aix-Marseille. Her works focuses on halal market, consumption, and regulation issues in Europe concerning industrial religious slaughter, and animal welfare.

Jean-Philippe Bras is Professor of Law at the University of Rouen and member of scientific council at the IISMM, Study of Islam and Muslim Societies Institute at EHESS, Paris. His research interests include the transformations of the public law and jurisprudence in the Muslim world as well as in Muslim communities across Europe.

Sandrine Bretonnière is Research Associate in sociology at CADIS-EHESS in Paris. After gaining her PhD at EHESS in 2009, she taught at the Faculty of Political Sciences in Bucharest, Romania. Her research interests include subjectivation processes; Islam, gender and public space; cross-cultural bioethics.
Eric Fassin is Professor of Sociology at École normale supérieure in Paris, affiliated with the research center IRIS (CNRS / EHESS). His work focuses on contemporary sexual and racial politics in France and the United States, and their intersections in a comparative perspective. His recent publications include Le sexe politique. Genre et sexualité au miroir transatlantique, (éditions de l’EHESS, Paris, 2009) and The Empire of Sexual Democracy (in print, Zone Books).

Mayanthi Fernando is Assistant Professor of Anthropology at the University of California at Santa Cruz. She is currently working on a book on Islam and laïcité in France, titled On the Muslim Question: Anxieties of the Secular Republic. Her research topics include religion, politics, and secularism, and the emergence of "secular Muslim" women in France.

Sune Lægaard is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Roskilde University, and associate research professor at the Centre for the Study of Equality and Multiculturalism, University of Copenhagen, Denmark. His research is within political philosophy, especially issues of multiculturalism. He is co-editor of the political philosophy journal Res Publica.

Christian Joppke is Professor of Sociology at the University of Bern, Switzerland. His work focuses on multiculturalism, immigration and citizenship. Among his recent books are Citizenship and Immigration (Cambridge: Polity, 2010) and Veil: Mirror of Identity (Cambridge: Polity, 2009).

Silvia Naef is Associate Professor of Art History at the Arabic Studies Department of the University of Geneva. Her research focuses primarily on images, visual culture and modern art in Islam. She is the author of Y a-t-il une question de l’image en Islam ? (Teraedre, Paris, 2004).

Nacira Guénif-Souilamas is Associate Professor at the Department of Education Sciences of HDR Université Paris Nord/13, and fellow researcher at EXPERICE (Paris 13-Paris 8). Her work focuses on gender issues, minorities and education. She is the author of Des « beurettes » aux descendantes d’immigrants nord-africains (Paris, Grasset/Le Monde, 2000).